

The New American Legal Clinic (NALC) provides immigration legal services at no charge; however, there may be required government filing fees and other incidental fees which are the sole responsibility of the client.

Below are some of the ways that NALC can help you with your immigration case.

Citizenship/Naturalization Applications

If you are a Legal Permanent Resident (LPR), have been in the country for at least five years (or three years if married to a U.S. citizen), demonstrate good moral character and have a basic understanding of English (or qualify for a disability exemption) you may be eligible to apply for U.S. citizenship/naturalization.

Family-Based Immigrant Visas (Lawful Permanent Residency)

If you have a spouse, child, or other family members who are U.S. citizens you could be eligible for a Family-Based Immigrant Visa. NALC will assess your case to determine eligibility for consular processing, Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) or adjustment of status. Limited availability each year

U-Visas / T-Visas

If you are a non-citizen who suffers from substantial physical or mental abuse as a result of having been a victim of a violent crime or human trafficking within the United States and reported the crime to law enforcement, you may be eligible for a U-Visa or a T-Visa. Limited availability each year

Removal Defense and Asylum

NALC provides full scope removal defense for a limited number of cases each year. If you have been served with a Notice to Appear (NTA) and are already in deportation proceedings before immigration court NALC may be able to provide representation in your case, this includes Asylum claims for those who fear returning to their home country due to persecution or harm.

LEGAL CLINIC

The New American Legal Clinic (NALC) provides quality immigration legal services, at the highest ethical standards, to historically underrepresented populations. NALC also has an educational component through which we educate students in immigration law while promoting cultural competence and client/attorney relationship skills. While working in NALC SJCL students will have the opportunity to provide legal representation under the direct supervision of experienced immigration law attorneys.

NALC serves the needs of our community and encourages immigrant integration by providing full scope immigration legal services free of charge. When contacting NALC, we will assess your annual income to determine eligibility for our services; if you qualify, NALC will evaluate your case and provide representation in your immigration case when eligible for the benefit that you are seeking.
